FIFA World

The Greatest Show on

The Final That Had It All: Spain's Fairytale in New York

Ferran Torres strikes. The ball kisses the net. Spain 1–0 Argentina. The Red Army erupts. Spain's goalkeeper, Unai Simón, had already made seven shutouts in the tournament. But Argentina's Emiliano Martínez?

He was having a superhuman night-11 saves in a World Cup final, a new record. When the final whistle blew, Spain's players collapsed in tears. Two years unbeaten. 38 matches without defeat. A second World Cup title. History made.

The Five Most Electrifying Matches You Couldn't Miss

- 1 France 6-4 England- The Quarter-Final That Defied Logic Twelve goals. Two European giants. One match that will be talked about for decades. Kylian Mbappé ran England's defense ragged. Harry Kane refused to go down without a fight. The scoreboard looked like a basketball game. Pure madness.
- 2 Argentina 3-2 Cape Verde- When the Underdogs Bit Cape Verde, making their World Cup debut, had the audacity to lead Argentina 1-0. Kevin Pina's goal sent a small island nation into ecstasy. But then came La Albiceleste-slow, methodical, ruthless. Three goals later, Argentina advanced. But Cape Verde- They won the world's hearts.
- 3 Uruguay 2-2 Cape Verde- The Draw Nobody Wanted to End Another Cape Verde epic! They led. They conceded. They equalized. They almost won. Vozinha, the 40-year-old goalkeeper, became an instant legend-15 million Instagram followers overnight.
- 4 Norway 3-2 Senegal - Haaland Announces Himself to the World Erling Haaland. Two goals. One statement: "I'm here." Senegal fought like lions, but Norway's Viking warrior was unstoppable. The football world finally saw what Manchester City fans had been screaming about for years.
- 5 Canada 6-0 Qatar -The Hosts' First-Ever World Cup Win! Jonathan David. Hat-trick. The entire nation of Canada lost its mind. For the first time ever, they had won a World Cup match. And they did it in style-six goals, zero conceded. Take that, doubters!

The Superstars Who Lit Up USA, Canada & Mexico

Lionel Messi – The GOAT Refuses to Retire

At 39 years old, most players are coaching youth teams. Not Messi. He scored five goals in two matches. He dropped a hat-trick against Algeria that tied the all-time World Cup record. His 30-yard curler? Goal of the Tournament. When he walked off the pitch after the final, the entire stadium gave him a standing ovation. Even Spanish fans. Even the referees. Because greatness demands respect

Kylian Mbappé – The French Missile

Remember the Golden Boot in Qatar 2022? Mbappé said, "Let's do it again."

He smashed past Olivier Giroud's France record with a thunderous 30-yard screamer against Senegal. Defenders didn't even try to chase him—they just watched.

Cup 2026:

Earth Just Got Greater!

Erling Haaland – The Norwegian Nightmare NO

Haaland is the sixth player to reach 50 international goals in under 50 appearances, doing so in 46 games. At the 2026 FIFA World Cup, Haaland helped Norway reach the quarter-finals—the nation's best ever World Cup finish—scoring seven goals. Four goals. Two games. Norway in the knockout stage. Haaland didn't just score—he demolished defenses. His physicality, his finishing, his presence. The World Cup finally had its first true Norwegian icon.

Vinicius Jr – Brazil's New King

Remember that goal against Morocco? Vinicius Jr picked up the ball on the left, cut inside, and-BANG! The net rippled. Brazil fans worldwide lost their minds. This was the tournament where he announced: "I'm not just a club star. I'm a World Cup star."

Denis Undav – Germany's Super-Sub Miracle

Three goals. 56 minutes on the pitch. A last-minute winner against Ivory Coast. Undav didn't start most games. But when he did come on? Germany's opponents panicked.

Moments That Made History

Cristiano Ronaldo's Sixth World Cup

At 41, Ronaldo did what no one else has ever done: scored in six different World Cups. Two goals against Uzbekistan. The crowd chanted "Siuuuu!" in unison. Even his critics had to clap.

DR Congo's First-Ever World Cup Point

Yoane Wissa's header against Portugal. The entire DR Congo bench sprinted onto the pitch. Fans in Kinshasa danced in the streets.

For a nation that had never won a point, this was everything. Curacao 1–1 Germany (at one point!)

Livano Comencia,

A player most had never heard of, scored against the mighty Germans in the first half. For 45 minutes, Curacao believed they could pull off the impossible. They didn't win. But they made history.

The Halftime Show That Broke the Internet

Madonna. Shakira. BTS. Justin Bieber. The Muppets. Ronaldinho and Ronaldo dancing on stage. FIFA's first-ever halftime show during a World Cup final was a cultural explosion. The final wasn't just about football—it was a global celebration.

Final Thoughts: Why 2026 Will Never Be Forgotten

The 2026 FIFA World Cup wasn't just a tournament. It was a month-long festival of football, passion, and human drama. From Spain's tactical masterpiece to Messi's age-defying brilliance, from Cape Verde's underdog dreams to Canada's first-ever victory—this tournament had everything.

As the confetti settled at MetLife Stadium and Spanish fans chanted "¡Campeones!" one thing was clear: The 2026 World Cup didn't just entertain. It inspired.

SUMMER BONANZA BOLLYWOOD FUNGAMA

THE FOUNDATION OF GREATNESS AND GLORY

Born and raised in New Delhi, Anahat Singh's sporting journey began not on the squash court but with badminton. Inspired by Olympic medallist P. V. Sindhu, she first picked up a badminton racquet before discovering her true calling in squash while accompanying her elder sister to practice sessions. What started as curiosity soon blossomed into an extraordinary passion, setting her on the path to becoming one of the world's brightest young squash stars.

Her remarkable rise has been shaped by the guidance of some of the finest minds in the sport. Former Indian squash legend Saurav Ghosal has played a pivotal role as her mentor, while renowned international coaches Grégory Gaultier and Stéphane Galifi have helped refine her technical excellence, tactical maturity and mental resilience. Together, they have nurtured a champion whose momentous achievement inspires the Indian sporting fraternity to dream bigger and aim higher.

THE FOUNDATION OF GREATNESS AND GLORY A STAR IS BORN

In the final held in Canada, Anahat produced a commanding performance to defeat Egypt's Ruqayya Salem in straight games and lift the coveted world title.

Anahat's achievement reflects years of relentless discipline and unyielding pursuits of excellence. Her success not only breaks a long-standing barrier for Indian squash but also ends Egypt's remarkable dominance at the junior world level, reaffirming that talent backed by perseverance can redefine history.

KUDOS TO THE TRIUMPH THAT INSPIRES A GENERATION

As young athletes across the country look towards new horizons, Anahat's extraordinary accomplishment serves as a powerful reminder that dreams traverse beyond limits. Her journey is a celebration of courage, commitment and the belief that every milestone begins with conviction to take the first leap.
